George Crismon, who is widely known all over Utah, looks so much younger than he really is that a chance acquaintance would hardly suspect that he is a pioneer of 47, and one who took an active part of the early exturement of the state. His experience has not been confined to the early days in Utah, for he went through the gold excitoment in California later on and has led an active life as a frontiersman. He has been said is still prominent in mining and business affairs. The portrait presented here is a reproduction from a photograph taken some years ago, and Mr. Crismon gives this outline of his cureer:

Was born near Jacksonville in Morgan county, Illinois, July 5, 1833; removed with my parents, Charles Crismon and Mary Hill Crismon to Far West, Missouri, in 1835; remained at that place until the expulsion of the Saints from there, then returned to Morgan county, Illinois, in 1839, and from there removed to Macedonia, Hancock county, about 20 miles east from Nauvoo in 1832, remaining until December, 1848; then removed to Nauvoo and remained there until February 9, 1846; then crossed the Mississippi river and Joined the camp of the Saints on Sugar Creek, lowa. From Sugar Creek we traveled with George Miller's company to Garden Grove and from there to Council Hinfis, most of the lime being the advance company. Was present at a dance given at Sarpies Point in honor of the Mormon battaillion on their departure for the Mexican wat. I was present when the ferry boat was launched near Council Bluffs.
